PREFACE

Upon retirement from the Pennsylvania Department of Health and Welfare in 1983, Wilmer Ogden Lankford, known to his friends as "Bill", returned to the Eastern Shore where he and his ancestors were born. He served as an elder and treasurer/endowment officer for Manokin Presbyterian Church in Princess Anne. He earned a master's degree in history from Salisbury State College and published genealogical reference books concerning 17th century court records of Somerset County. Additionally, Bill was a member of the Somerset County Historical Society and the Lower Delmarva Genealogical Society, of which he was a past President. Sadly, Wilmer "Bill" Lankford passed away on March 2, 2002.

Bill generously donated to the Nabb Research Center the rights to his four part series, They Lived in Somerset, as well as numerous books and research materials. As was characteristic of Bill, he wanted to give a gift that kept on giving. We are sure that this latest volume will be as well-received by the research community as the previous volumes.

Volume IV covers the years 1751 to 1775. While Bill formatted the document, he had not written the Explanatory Notes section. To assist the researcher we have created that section based on the earlier volumes and added notations of secondary sources which were utilized in his research. We used Bill's introduction from the first volumes which explains the formatting.

Although our good friend has departed, we will always recall his generosity of spirit and deed.

INTRODUCTION

Somerset County was opened for settlement in 1661 for the purpose of, in the words of the Proprietor, securing the "better . . . remembrance of the bounds between Virginia and Maryland". The new frontier area encompassed some two thousand square miles of land which today are divided among the Maryland counties of Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico; the southern part of Sussex County Delaware; and a small northern strip of Accomack County, Virginia. The land was fertile, well-served by the Bay and numerous inland waterways as transportation lanes, and sparsely populated by relatively peaceable Indians.

The conditions and the prospect of free land brought settlers thronging into Somerset. The explosive population growth led to the organization of the territory south of the Nanticoke into the county of Somerset on August 22, 1666. Somerset's population continued to mushroom until it became the most populous county in Maryland by the beginning of the 18th century with official records showing 5,404 inhabitants both taxables and non-taxables. Only Talbot and Anne Arundel approached this figure with 4,862 and 4,121 respectively.

It is these 5,404 men, women, and children (as well as those who preceded them but did not make it to the end of the century) whom we seek to identify in this listing to the extent that existing records permit. It is fortunate that record-keeping was early established in Somerset. It is also fortunate that so many of those early records have survived for three centuries or more. The researcher finds, however, that specific county information is scattered and not always readily available. The format of this book, therefore, is designed to consolidate and compile data from a multiplicity of sources in alphabetic and chronological order. If my own experience in researching individual families is any criterion, the ability to view data in consolidated form will aid others materially in family research.

Further, the usual basic sources cover only that part of the population whose economic condition was such as to warrant drawing a will or to call for the administration of an estate. The majority of people did not fall into that category. Their names survive only if they were called upon to serve on juries, witness documents, or were brought into court for whatever reason.

For this compilation I have drawn on probate records and a number of additional sources. They include county vital statistics, parish records, judicial proceedings, legislative biographies, and the published Archives of Maryland. Not included, however, are any of the voluminous land records. The reason for this seeming omission is the availability of the abstracts prepared by Ruth T. Dryden in her three-volume series Land Records . . ., one each for the present-day counties of Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico. The section under "Explanatory Notes" covering "References" will give more specific data on sources.

It cannot be too greatly stressed that what this compilation provides is "bare-bone facts". Researchers finding entries of interest should not fail to refer, if at all possible, to the sources themselves for possible additional data as well as to consult the land records.

Every effort has been made to ensure accuracy in this compilation. Experience tells me, however, that errors will have crept in. Should the reader come across any inaccuracies, I will appreciate being so informed (with documentary references when available) for correction in any future editions.

Happy hunting!

Wilmer O. Lankford

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The following refers to the column heading on each page as an aid in interpretation.

NAMES

While I agree generally that names should be recorded as they appear in the original documents, some exceptions have been made. This book contains alphabetized listings. However, many names have widely variant spellings even for the same individual. For this reason some spellings have been altered to the most usual spelling to reduce possibly overlooking a crucial entry as a result of the scattering which would otherwise occur. When this has been done the original spelling is show in the "Remarks" column as OT.....

DATE

The dates given are, as a rule, reproduced just as recorded but with modifications in these instances: In the case of the Judicials, dates used for all entries are those of the opening session unless taken from a specific document quoted in the record certain more lengthy abstracts of wills have been divided into two entries; the second will carry a date one day later than the first to maintain proper order in the computer listing when the original carries an incomplete or illegible date - e.g. __ January 1680 - day 1 is inserted arbitrarily.

PLACE

When a document indicates a location for an individual, it is shown in this column. "PrAn" = Princess Anne, StpP = Stepney Parish, Qntco=Quantico

CODE

This column is used in some cases to show the type of document referred to or, for parish records, what was recorded. "W", "I", and "A" correspond to Will, Inventory, and Administration with "B", "M" and "D" to born, married and died.

REMARKS

The following are the abbreviations used in the column to save space:

acct	= account
adm	= administrator or administration
app/inv	= approved inventory
b	= born
bro	= brother
cou	= cousin
d	= died
dau	= daughter
d&b	= died and buried
decd	= deceased
exec/w	= executor of will
gdn	= guardian
HH	= household
imm	= immigrated: paid own passage
inv	= inventory
LbT	= pounds of tobacco
m	= married
ment	= mentioned
ment/w	= mentioned in will
nok	= next of kin (may sometimes be friend or creditor)
O'seer/w	= Overseer of will: similar to executor
OT	= originally or otherwise transcribed
prob	= probated
ref	= reference or referred to
sis	= sister
svt	= servant
w	= will
wf	= wife
witn/w	= witnessed will
